VINSON PROPOSES DOUBLING AMERICAN FLEET

2,223 PLEDGES ARE RECORDED IN BOND DRIVE

Reports of City-Wide Canvass Show $35,853 Total Monthly

CAMPAIGN REPORT STILL INCOMPLETE

Clean-Up To Be Staged Between Now and Friday Night

Team captains in the War Savings Bond pledge campaign, meeting with Chairman L. H. Colley in the Memorial building last night to check up on results, reported their team workers had made 3,012 calls, receiving 2,223 pledges for a total monthly amount of $35,853.60.

This was not a complete report, as practically every one of the 15 captains has some territory to cover yet, but they promised to have this done by Friday night.

An active clean-up campaign will be conducted from now until Friday night, and a complete report of results is expected to be available by next Monday.

In the meantime, pledge books have been placed in the two local banks, the savings and loan company office and the postoffice. Those who have been missed and desire to obtain a blue and white Minuteman emblem for their windows by signing a pledge to buy bonds regularly, can do so by calling at any of the above named places this week or the first of next week.

Chairman Colley today was enthusiastic in his praise for the work done by the 15 team captains and the 150 pledge takers. He gave special credit to the latter who, he said, did a remarkably good job in completing the house-to-house canvass in such a short time. The captains also did excellent work in directing their teams and in personally helping the solicitation.

"While no figures for comparison are available," Colley added, "I believe our Salem report will be most favorable when compared with those of other cities in Ohio."

DOUHET AIR RAID THEORY RECALLED

Late Italian General Held Planes Could Conquer Nations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Cologne! Essen! And after that? Some twenty-one years ago the late General Gulio Douhet, one time head of Italy's military aviation, advanced a theory which has come to bear his name—that a nation could be forced to surrender in 48 hours through systematic destruction of its cities by waves of enemy bombers. Indeed, he gave a hypothetical picture of France and Belgium being plowed under in two days by a mighty German air offensive.

Douhet's idea was that as city after city fell, the morale of the population would go to pieces, and the government would lose all control.

Demonstration Seen

During the frightful months of August and September two years ago, after the collapse of France, it looked as though Hitler was going to demonstrate in large degree the Douhet theory. Horrible death and devastation poured from the clouds until it seemed that the tortured nerves of the people of Britain could stand no more. But they turned their brave faces to the skies and defied the enemy.

It seemed that Hitler had shown us the limit of bombing possibilities. But two years ago have brought great changes, and we now see far more powerful air fleets carrying to German cities the catastrophe of which Douhet dreamed.

A huge portion of the ancient Rhenish city of Cologne lies in ruins. The neighboring city of Essen, with its vast Krupp armament works, has undergone a similar experience, and Hitler's main source of munitions has been given a terrific blasting.

And this is only the beginning of a systematic destruction of German cities, one by one. British Premier

STREET WORK FUND IN SIGHT

Early Improvement of S. Broadway Stretch Indicated by Council

Sufficient funds are now on hand, or pledged, to guarantee the resurfacing of that stretch of S. Broadway between Columbia st and the north point of the Bliss property, Councilman Harry Vincent told solons at last night's meeting.

Vincent heads a special committee whose job it was to contact property owners along this stretch of thoroughfare, the only unimproved piece of the street now remaining.

Council acted speedily on an improvement request from Ridgewood dr. property owners, represented by Albert Morris.

Morris said that the property owners there would like to have the thoroughfare improved with asphalt, slag and oil treatment, and that the owners were willing to pay for the materials if the city would provide the labor and equipment.

The request won immediate approval and Engineer F. S. Barckhoff was instructed to obtain estimates.

Bliss company officials, in a communication to council, asked that legislation be enacted prohibiting parking on either side of S. Broadway from the transfer tracks of the plant's welding shop to the machine shop, and north to Franklin st. It was pointed out that room is needed for the many large trucks going in and out of the receiving department. The request was turned over to the safety committee.

Councilman Vincent, chairman of the streets, alleys and sidewalks committee, announced that every effort is being made to complete street repairs as rapidly as possible. His statement was made in answer to complaints concerning street conditions. He also called upon property owners to aid in the repair program by fixing the sidewalks in front of their homes or business places.

CIO Faces New Demands By Lewis' Mine Workers

WASHINGTON, June 3 — The CIO national executive board convening today was faced with a set of demands from John L. Lewis's united Mine Workers as the price of that unions continued affiliation.

President Philip Murray of the CIO, whom the miners removed as their vice president last week, said the board would discuss the demands, but not today.

He said the first session would be devoted exclusively to national affairs, such as war producttion, manpower and wage stabilization. He would not venture a guess as to when the board would reach the UMW's prescription for avoiding estrangement.

U. S. Ships In Convoy

LONDON, June 3.—United States ships were included in the large convoy which fought its way to Murmansk last week through five days and nights of heavy attacks by German U-boats, dive bombers and torpedo planes, official circles reported today.

Russian and British ships also were in the convoy, which bore tanks and aircraft to Soviet armies.

RAF MOPS UP IN RUHR AREA; ESSEN BOMBED

Scale of Operations Not As Large As Those Previously

NAZI PLANES RAID CANTERBURY AGAIN

Average of 250 British Planes Cover French Areas Daily

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 3—Strong British air squadrons blasted again at the munitions center of Essen last night, mopping up areas which escaped destruction in the 1,036-plane raid Monday night, and striking at other objectives in the Ruhr valley, authorities said today

On the home front, the British said a small number of enemy planes dropped bombs in southeast England, starting small fires and causing some damage and casualties.

The German high command, in its broadcast communique, identified the target as the cathedral city of Canterbury, where, it said 10,000 inyendiary bombs and other bombs of "heavy and the heaviest calibers" were dropped. It was the second raid in three nights on Canterbury.

Results Satisfactory

While it was emphasized that the RAF struck in force, an authoritative statement said "the scale of operation was not comparable with that of the previous night."

"A good deal of smoke and ground haze made observation difficult, but the weather was good and the results are believed to be satisfactory," the statement said.

Fourteen bombers were reported missing. This compared with 35 which failed to return and 44 Essen raid Monday night and 44 lost Sunday night in the Cologne attack.

(By a comparative scale, this would indicate abouut 400 bombers were used in the thrust last night.)

250 Planes a Day

The air ministry announced that British planes made more than 7,700 daylight sweeps over occupied France in one recent month—an average of about 250 planes a day—in another phase of offensive air activity.

In the first five months of this year, it said, the equivalent of 15 full German fighter squadrons was destroyed in day sweeps by the fighter command over enemy-occupied land. These sweeps, the air ministry news service said, had the effect of a "second front" in the west "where nearly 50 per cent of the total German fighter force is retained to meet the joint offensive of the fighter and bomber commands."

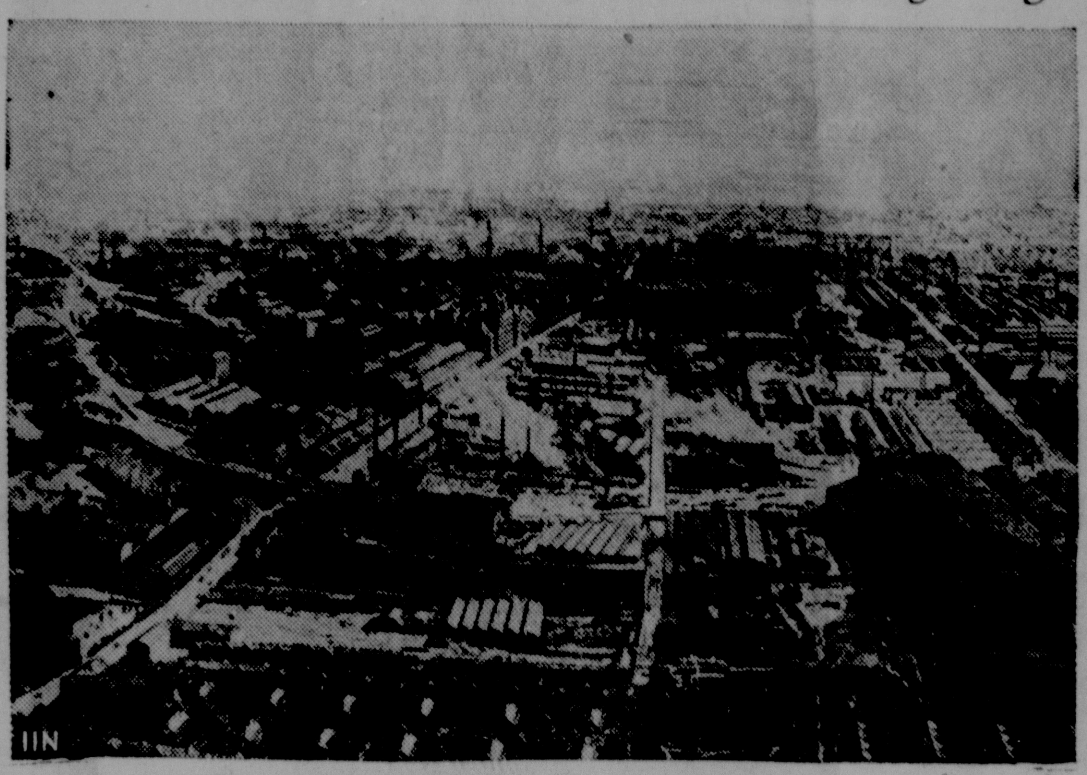
LONDON, June 3.—An RAF commentator declared today that air raids on Germany "will get bigger" and asserted that a total of 30,000 planes bombing Germany each month was "not a fantastic figure."

He said the objectives of the terrific raids on Cologne and the Ruhr had been "substantially secured."

"We will repeat the dose and the dose will get bigger," he added.

The commentator disclosed that upwards of 1,000 fighters swept over France and escorted shipping Monday between the raid by 1,130 planes on Cologne Saturday night and the 1,036-plane raid on Essen Monday night.

Armament Works in Essen RAF Bombing Target



View of the Krupp works at Essen, Germany

Essen, the great German industrial city in the Ruhr valley, and home of the Krupp armament works, is the latest target of Royal Air Force bombers. More than 1,000 planes carried out the attack and damage to the city was said to have been at least equal to the havoc wrought on Cologne.

C. C. C. FUNDS ARE CUT OUT

House Appropriations Committe Ends Corps' Program

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGOON, June 3 — The house appropriations committee approved today a $1,058,451,660 bill for the labor department, the social security board and related agencies after eliminating a $75,818,000 fund for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Chairman Cannon (D-MO) of the committee said the members voted 15 to 12 to end the CCC program on a motion by Rep. Engel (R-Mich).

Rep. Hare (D-SC), chairman of the subcommittee which prepared the bill, said the committee members "apparently believed that the CCC was no longer necessary."

The $75,818,000 which had been in the bill for the CCC itself was a stepdown of $171,142,000 from the 1942 allotment. There were 1,209 camps at the beginning of the present fiscal year and the reduced appropriation was to have trimmed this number to 350.

J. J. McEntee, CCC director, insisted in testimony that the corps was necessary for work at army cantonments and for forest fire fighting, and argued that a "working organization') should be maintained for after the war.

Elimination of funds for the CCC, drastic curtailment of the National Youth Administration allotment and other economies were offset in part by increases in amounts listed as essential to thhe war effort. The net savings over last year figured out at $202,587,830.

Joe Nocera Of Columbia Takes City Marbles Crown

Emerges Undefeated From Finals at Reilly Field Today; Will Go To Canton Saturday

Joe Nocera, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Nocera of 287 S. Ellsworth ave., emerged as champion from the finals of the city marble tournament finals at Reilly field this morning.

A pupil of the fourth grade at Columbia school, Nocera showed amazing accuracy from outside the 10-foot circle and good control of his "shooter" inside the ring as he mowed down four other grade school champs in easy fashion. While playing Johnny Beck of Prospect in his final match, Joe knocked two marbles from the ring on one shot.

In his quest of the large gold medal given by The Salem News each year to the city champion, Nocera trimmed Tommy Miner of Reilly, 7-2, and Eugene Bell of Fourth Street, 7-0, Henry Miller of McKinley, 7-2, and Johnny Beck of Prospect, 7-3. He was never in serious danger of losing except in the final match when he trailed Beck for a short time. The St. Paul winner did not appear for the finals.

Nocera will exhibit his prowess at the district finals at Canton Saturday, and if he is successful there he will go to Cleveland for the regional finals.

Minor and Miller trailed Champ Joe in the standings with two wins and a pair of defeats each, while Beck and Bell brought up the rear with one win and three losses apiece. Minor scored wins over Bell and Beck, while Miller trimmed Minor and Beck, both on 7-0 scores. Beck topped Bell for his only win while Bell's lone triumph came at the expense of Miller.

Each of the school champions was awarded a bronze medal for his fine work in the eighth annual marble classic. No playoffs were held at Junior High school this year.

Hit by debris at the E. V. Steel home near Troy, Mrs. Cubert Bush, 29, of Cable, suffered a leg fracture. Lightning knocked Herman Carver, 27, unconscious at Middletown, but his condition was termed not serious. A bolt stunned four civilian employes at the army's Wright field near here.

JUNIOR HIGH HOLDS FINAL EXERCISES

American Legion and Arta Snyder Dodge Awards Are Made

Final exercises were held this morning in Junior High school, marking the promotion of a large class of eighth grade students to the High school.

Presentation of the American Legion and the Arta Snyder Dodge awards to outstanding students featured the program.

The Arta Snyder Dodge awards, of $12.50 each, were made to the students showing the greatest development in English. They went to Tullio Ciotti and Gerald Shasteen, the presentation being made by Supt. Earl S. Kerr.

John Plegge and Ruth Baltorinic were selected as recipients of the American Legion awards. Principal Loren Early presented M. H. Critchfield, first vice commander of the Salem Legion post who, in turn, presented Att'y Charles McCorkhill who gave the two students the awards, consisting, in each case, of a lapel pin, a large bronze medal and a certificate.

A short talk was given by John T. Burns, representing the board of education.

The pupils will report back at 8:30 a. m. Friday for their report cards.

OHIO WILL BUILD AIRCRAFT MOTORS

New, Powerful Type of Liquid Cooled Plane Engine Will Be Built for U. S. Navy

CLEVELAND, June 3.—Aviation Corp. announced today it is constructing an Ohio plant to build a new, powerful type of liquid-cooled aircraft engine for the navy—which until now has used air-cooled motors exclusively.

William F. Wise, executive vice president, said while he could not disclose specifications, he was permitted to say the new motor has a horsepower rating considerably greater than any other liquid-cooled aircraft engine in production, and compares favorably with the largest air-cooled motors.

Liquid Cooled Engine, a new division of Aviation Corp., will construct the engines, on which development work started several years ago. The new factory is being financed by Defense Plant Corp.

"Production of liquid-cooled engines with a power rating in the range of the largest air-cooled engines will mark an important milestone in aircraft history," Wise stated. "I believe that it will not only contribute toward winning the war, which is uppermost in our minds, but will also figure very significantly in post-war developments."

AXIS SUBS GET 3 MORE SHIPS

Four-Day Total Is 12; Loss Of Life Is Comparatively Small

(By Associated Press)

Prowling Axis submarines, intensifying their attacks, have sent three more vessels to the bottom of the sea, bringing the announced total in four days to 12.

The loss of life was comparatively small. Only 41 seamen were listed as dead or missing from nine sinkings reported yesterday with the navy's announcement today of three additional torpedoings, it was disclosed that all 83 crewmen and eight passengers escaped death when torpedoes sank a medium-sized United States merchant vessel and a large British ship in the Caribbean area early last month.

Thirty-three survivors landed at eastern ports from the third torpedoed ship, a medium-sized British merchantman, sunk several hundred miles east of Bermuda. There were six known dead.

The officially-announced submarine toll of ships in the Atlantic and adjacent waters since the start of the war rose to 239.

The United States ship, carrying eight passengers and a crew of 38, went down off a large West Indian island May 6. The large British ship, with a crew of 45, was sunk in another part of the Caribbean May 9.

The medium-sized British merchantman sunk was ripped open by two torpedoes several hundred miles east of Bermuda.

ASKS COMMITTEES ON TRANSPORTATION

Gov. Bricker Calls On Ohio Mayors To Set Up Organizations To Conserve Rubber

COLUMBUS, June 3.—Gov. John W. Bricker asked all Ohio mayors today to set up transportation committees and make immediate surveys of their communities to help conserve tires.

Adding new names to his state transportation committee, the governor sent to the mayors a list of recommendations stemming from a committee meeting here May 4, including:

Survey each community; stagger work hours to lighten peak-hour loads on bus and street car lines; encourage factory workers to double up rides in private cars; eliminate unnecessary stops by buses and street cars to speed up service

George C. McConnaughey, transportation committee chairman and Ohio public utilities commission chairman, declared that, regardless of some public statements that the rubber shortage is not serious, "we should proceed on the theory that tires will not be available for private vehicles for at least two and one-half or three years."

New members of the committee not previously announced include Highway Director Hal G. Sours, Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, Mayor John Carey of Toledo. President Walter Draper of the Cincinnati Street Railway Co. Others are members of state departments.

500 FIGHTING SHIPS ASKED FOR U. S. NAVY

$8,300,000,000 Appropriation Measure To Be Introduced Today

TWO-YEAR LIMIT IS SEEN FOR PROGRAM

Ships Would be In Addition To Those Already Authorized

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3.—An $8,300,000,000 measure authorizing construction of approximately 500 fighting ships—a gigantic program which would come close to doubling the size of the United States fleet—was drafted today by Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the house naval committee.

Vinson said that he would introduce the bill, calling for the largest naval construction program ever authorized at one time, today, and said that "the two-ocean navy probably would be finished in the next 24 months."

What Bill Asks

The bill would call for 500,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of cruisers of both the light and heavy type, 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escort vessels, and 800 small vessels for patrol work, minelaying and tending duty.

The new ships would be in addition to those already authorized for construction. In its last official disclosure of strength in October of last year, the navy reported 346 fighting ships in service and 347 building.

The house appropriations committee sent to the floor today a supplementary navy, marine corps and coast guard supply bill calling for $654,999,740 in direct appropriations and $1,037,500,000 in contract authorization, of which $887,500,000 was earmarked for submarine construction.

Would Add 100 Subs

Just how many submersib'es this would provide for has never been disclosed officially, but semi-official estimates were that it would add upwards of 100 long-range undersea raiders to the fleet.

To be added to the new bill as an amendment on the floor, said Chairman Vinson, was another contract authorization for $1,115,000,000 for construction of 500,000 tons of auxiliary naval vessels.

If passed the bill would boost to approximately $163,000,000,000 the amount appropriated or authorized for Uncle Sam's war chest for a three-year period starting July 1, 1940.

Sugar Blanks Are Used Up—So Board Will Print Its Own

The Salem rationing board today developed a novel and original way of meeting the shortage of sugar application forms which halted the registration of applicants for sugar, for canning, at the Memorial building yesterday at noon.

When the application blanks were exhausted, board officials wired for more, but there were none available in Columbus and it seems that Columbus couldn't find any anywhere else.

So the board decided to print its own application forms. The original form will be photographed and this will be reproduced in as large a number as needed.

In order to defray the cost of the printing and engraving, the board will ask a voluntary donation of one cent from each applicant. This will not be mandatory—merely a voluntary gift.

This step was taken, the board emphasized, in order to give canners the green light on canning operations immediately, particularly as they apply to strawberries, which are coming into the market now.

A meeting of volunteer workers who will aid in registration of applicants will be held tonight at the Memorial building. Certificates for the applicants who have already registered will be mailed tonight, board members said.

The board tentatively decided today to resume registration Friday morning. Definite announcement will be made tomorrow.

God Not To Blame

SPRINGFIELD, June 3—God is not responsible for this war, Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, president of Mt. Union college at Alliance, asserted today.

It is due rather, he told the 1331st annual Methodist conference, "to the wickedness of man."

"If God had his way, there would not be any war," Dr. Ketcham said.

BOMB DAMAGE TO GERMAN MORALE

Britain's mass raid on Cologne and Essen and the prospect of still greater raids to be made against other German cities have revived hopes of winning the war in the air—or at least of weakening Germany so seriously that invasion would be little more than a military formality.

To make this plausible it is being explained for skeptics that the British raids on German cities are beyond comparison with anything previously done. They are supposed to make the German blitzes against British cities strictly minor league attempts.

Perhaps this is true, but it still may be doubted whether the United Nations, confident of supremacy in the air, are going to win the war there without achieving supremacy on land and security on the oceans. Only one thing would bring Germany to its knees without victory in all three dimensions of modern warfare.

The bomb damage to German morale would have to be infinitely greater than it was to British morale when the luftwaffe was demonstrating the possibilities of aerial barrage. Many honestly believe it will be; William Shirer, for one, in his "Berlin Diary," argued that Germans simply were not mentally prepared to endure bombing raids. The point remains to be decided. Perhaps concussion will shatter German morale beyond repair.

Meanwhile, one source of satisfaction in the raids is unaffected by their direct effect on the outcome of the war. At long last, Germans are discovering what the wars they have been so eager to fight mean to civilian victims of their national blood lust. In World war I they began the experiment against English cities with the aerial bombardment that now is backfiring at them lethally night by night, day by day, week by week. It may not be extravagant to hope that the next time a paranoiac Hitler invites the German people to share the thrill of putting their feet on civilization's neck they will remember that the last time they tried it the consequences came home to roost—not on the soil of Belgium and France, but in demolition bombs that dropped on the soil of Germany, itself.

RATIONALIZED SERVICE

Some of the regret expressed over curtailment of service customs that have made American customers the most pampered people on earth is perfunctory. In many cases rationed service is going to be rationalized service, a claim that never could be made in its behalf before.

Competition, the spice of life, decreed that Mrs. Snootch had to be appeased at any price. The policy of apeasement led to all sorts of excesses, but once begun it had to be permitted to run out its course. Service With A Smile was more than a slogan; the people paying for the service had to smile to keep their sanity.

It was one of the things foreigners marveled at when asked for their impressions of America. It was one of the things Americans marveled at, too, when they stopped to think about it. Service sometimes became a kind of gadget to play with, like a door that opened itself; half the fun was in watching it work.

And work it did—so incerditbly well that any defection immediately became an excuse for recriminations and slanders. The service people had made their beds and must lie in them. But that didn't mean they enjoyed their dilemma. It isn't to be imagined that many of them will make the most of their present opportunity, but if a few of the do manage to convey the impression that elimination of a lot of needless running around is a silver lining in the war clouds they can be forgiven.

SITTING BIRDS

Uneasiness about the popularity of congress-baiting is well founded. There needs to be straight thinking about congressional welfare in wartime.

Executive authority necessarily is supreme and dominant in wartime. Congressmen, aware of this, voluntarily suspend many of their cherished prerogatives. They become members of a ratifying body, rather than members of a deliberative body. Presumably, war tests the wisdom of all the deliberate decisions they have made for years past; the time for building carefully is over, and the time for putting into effect is at hand.

Under dictatorship, which is the type of government most easily adapted to wartime, there is never any deliberation. Executive authority is supreme. Representatives of the people are suffered in positions of nominal importance in the government solely to appease the people. It is always wartime. Executive authority always is supreme. The legislator is unknown. His place is occupied by the ratifier—the rubber stamp.

It is claimed that sniping at congressmen at a time like this is not only shortsighted but bad sportsmanship—like shooting a sitting bird. That is true. Congressmen are the victim of circumstances. While they ponder the outcome of the momentous events whizzing past the they might give a little special thought to two elements in their distasteful situation. First, their prestige as legislators had been injured extensively by rubber stamp behavior before war started. Second, their prestige as legislators can be improved by refusal to make the same mistake when the war is over.

JUNE BRINGS THE ROSES

The telescoping effect of momentous events on time has made the arrival of another June seem almost too soon. The things that were happening a year ago by the calendar do not seem 12 months old yet

The British had been trounced on Crete. On June 16, Germany was asked to close its consular offices in the United States. The German super-battleship Bismarck had sunk the British super-dreadnaught in a five-minute battle, only to be sunk in turn by a combination of torpedo planes and cruisers. Admiral Darlan announced after a conference with Adolf Hitler that the French fleet would not be turned over to Germany and that the British knew this.

Hitler and Mussolini had a date to meet each other at a rendezvous in the Brenner pass in their armored trains. President Roosevelt declared an unlimited national emergency. Lightly, casually, as a man might decide to eat one more peanut, Germany declared war on Russia because, it explained, Russia was "threatening" German frontiers. After a few days of fighting, the German people were told to expect great successes.

In the United States, the isolationists, more than ever convinced by this latest stroke of perfidy that Europe hadn't changed any, were getting into full cry. Surely, all that can't have been a whole year ago. Surely it can't have been six whole months since Pearl Harbor.

THE STARS SAY:

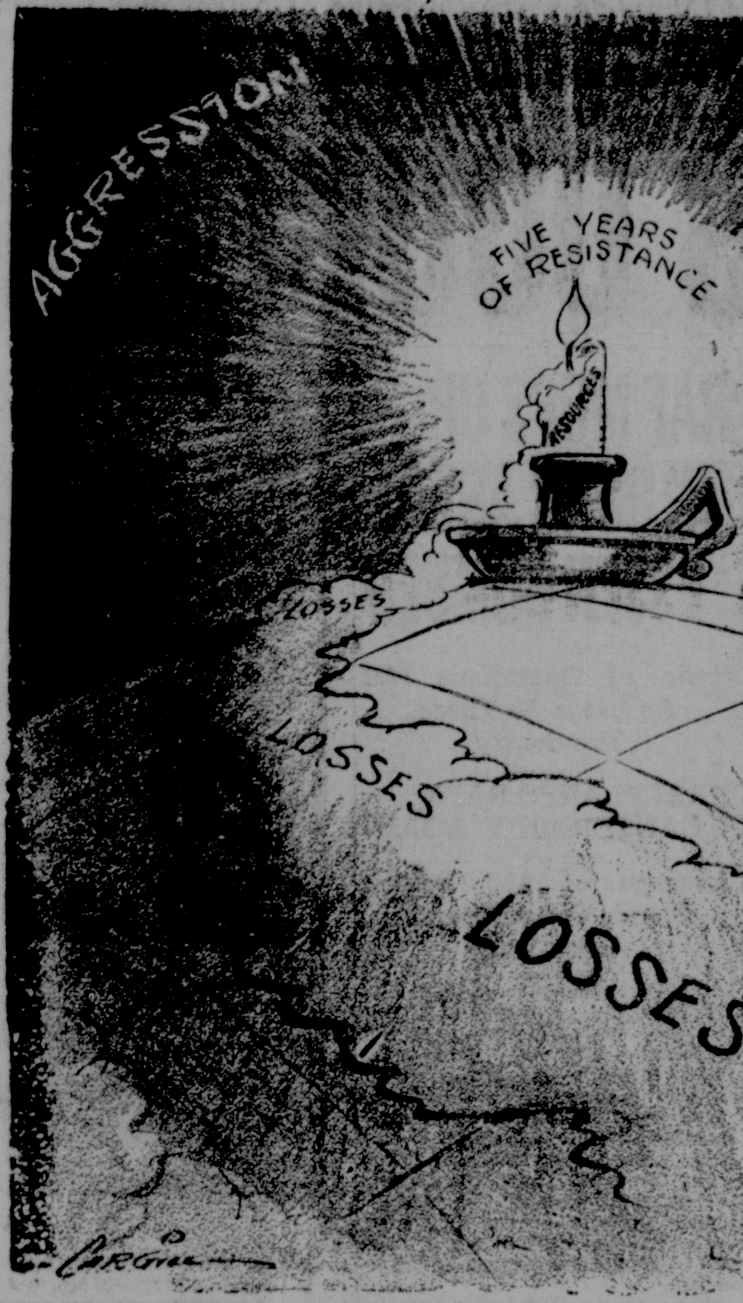
For Thursday, June 4

THERE SHOULD be exceptional opportunities for attaining the ambitions and increasing the capital credit and business standing as well as personal popularity and prestige. Influential friends, those in power, and relatives as well, may assist in furthering opportunities for obtaining this growth, expansion and general condition of satisfaction and pleasure. Travel change, agencies and professional skill and ingenuity may aid this ambition.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of excellent prospects for securing their most cherished and exalted ambitions, whether these be in spiritual, romantic, professional aims or businesses, financial or speculative enterprises. All are under excellent stimuli for expansion, productiveness and progress. But there are certain channels of duplicity, impetuous or reckless moves to be handled prudently. Travel, change and agents promise profit as well as much pleasure.

A child born on this day should be richly endowed with much creative skill and versatility, fitting it for an influential professional career, and fulfilled ambitions.

CHINATOWN, WHERE LIGHTS ARE LOW



NO QUININE SHORTAGE IS FEARED

Favorable for Years to Come, Clendening Learns

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE CONQUEST of Batavia has affected American life and America in planning for the future probably more than any other aspect of the war. One feature of this which worried me was the outlook for the quinine supply. Nearly 100 per cent of the supply of quinine for the world came from the Dutch East Indies. If this supply were shut off, it would have a very serious effect.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Over most of the continental area of North America it would have no special effect, but in our Southern states we still have to combat troops in the Canal Zone and in the tropics anywhere the possibility of a malaria epidemic is very imminent and it might be very serious if quinine were not available

Dutch Monopoly

The Dutch handled the quinine monopoly as a monopoly, but with very enlightened humanism. They did not allow the cultivation of cinchona trees, from which quinine is obtained, to die out, as happened in Ceylon where it was abandoned for more profitable crops.

In 1913 the Dutch Government issued an agreement which had to do with the regulation of prices and the distribution of quinine which has resulted in a very even distribution throughout the civilized world at a very fair price. It is hardly possible to suppose from what we know of the Japanese that they will continue so humanitarian an agreement.

No Shortage Imminent

However, the quinine situation I am informed by an authoritative source is quite favorable for several years to come. About two years ago the Government began accumulating quinine for the Army and Navy on a very large scale. The amount of this is a military secret, but the opinion exists that this reserve stock of quinine will be ample for two or three years.

No Shortage for Some Time

Manufacturing chemists have matched the foresight of the Government and now have very considerable stocks. There is no real danger of a quinine shortage for some time to come.

For the far future, it is possible that the quinine industry can be developed in South America. It is curious that the first place quinine was ever found was in South America and that it has fallen behind so completely in production.

The wild barks in South America are too low in quinine content to be worth extraction, except in a real emergency, but some attempts have been made to match the Dutch cultural methods. In Colombia there is being grown a quinine bark which is of good quality and high content, and this may be developed into a supply sufficient to meet our need for all time in the future.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. G.:—"What are the symptoms of calcium deficiency? What are the symptoms of too much calcium in the system?"

Answer: Calcium deficiency in young people causes rickets, a disease in which there is softening of the bones. In adult life calcium deficiency does not affect bones because they are already formed, but it causes a spasm of the muscles known as tetany. Bad teeth are also ascribed to calcium deficiency. There is no definite sign of too much calcium in the tissues.

Sergeant Strobing

United States war department in Washington has made public a poignant series of radio messages from Corregidor, describing the final hour before the surrender of the Philippine fortress to the Japs. The messages were tapped out by Sergt. Irving Strobing of Brooklyn, N. Y., while shells were exploding and rifles were being smashed to keep them from the Japs. Strobing now is believed to be a prisoner of war. The messages were broadcast from New York on the Army Hour radio program.

CRIME AT CASTAWAY

by EDITH BRISTOL

SYNOPSIS

The moment Gerry Lane stepped over the threshold of "Castaway" to become secretary to Walter Gregg, wealthy contractor, she had a feeling of foreboding. It was obvious her employer feared someone or something. Was it Worth Durfee with whom he had been in litigation and who had sent Gregg's car hurtling over a cliff, seriously injuring him? The latter won a damage suit now on appeal, and Durfee is trying to settle out of court. Or did it have something to do with the antagonism which existed in his home? Estelle Gregg's wife, had no love for Martha his sister, who managed the household. Estelle also resented the fact that Pauline Dawson, Gregg's eccentric first wife, was staying at the contractor's cottage in nearby Hidden Cove. Sydney Loftus, Estelle's son, was contemptuous of Harry Craven, the suave manager of the Gregg Construction Company, and Lance Gregg, Walter's nephew, who gave up college to assist his uncle following the accident. Throughout was a feeling of distrust and watchful waiting. Gregg warns Gerry to keep his files locked. Her first day at Castaway, while Gerry was working on the Gallina Dam records, the company's latest project, Florabelle Hunt, Pauline's maid, slips into the study purportedly with a message for Gregg. When Gerry goes to summon Martha, the woman disappears with a picture of Gregg which hung over the file. Martha belittles the incident, asks Gerry not to mention it to anyone, and replaces the photo with a duplicate. That night Gregg is murdered. Martha will benefit most by her brother's death: Castaway will go to her. Estelle's legacy is tied up in a trust fund. Sheriff Nathan Allen learns from Kobe, a servant, that Worth Durfee visited Gregg at 8:30, the night of the killing. Durfee frankly admits "There never was any love lost between us and I'm not sorry he's dead, but it puts me in a spot."

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

Sheriff Allen and I entered through the kitchen. Issu unlocked the screen door; now for the first time in its history locked from the inside.

"People try to come inside" he grinned. "I keep locked now."

Allen nodded.

In the big living room Lance Gregg sat talking with a half dozen men who were strangers to me. They arose, but I hardly followed their names as he introduced them. One or two seemed to know the sheriff already; several had cameras; all seemed to be of the live-wire type.

"These gentlemen have been asking to see my aunt and Mrs. Gregg," Lance explained, "but I told them you'd be back soon and would answer all their questions."

"Does either of the ladies want to talk?" asked Allen.

"No," Lance answered. But they said they'll do whatever you advise. They're in their rooms now."

Allen waved the reporters to chairs and dropped into one, himself. Lance stepped into the background of the group and stood looking on.

"Now, boys," Allen began, "I want to do everything I can for you. You got the main facts in the story this morning over the telephone but we'll answer any questions you care to ask. But surely, gentlemen, you don't want to annoy these two ladies in such sorrow?"

"We don't want to, sheriff," one of the older reporters spoke first. "But you know how it is—we have a job. Give us a break."

"You boys give me a break," Allen spoke conciliatingly. "Tell you what, I'll let you take photographs all over the house, anything you want. Just skip the ladies. They can't tell you anything to add to your story."

"But pictures, sheriff. Pictures! That's orders from the chief, you know. C'mon. We'd do the same for you. Ask them to pose and they'll do whatever you say. Be a sport!"

One of the cameramen spoke up, "Perhaps this young lady here—" He looked toward me and I had thought I was keeping so well in the background, waiting to be dismissed. "This is the secretary, you said. She'd make a swell picture—shoot her at the desk where Gregg worked before the bullet plugged him."

Allen shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't care. It's all right, if she's willing."

The photographers rose with one motion and I could feel their lens trained on me. I looked imploringly at Allen. Must I? I'd been sworn in as a deputy but did that include being photographed? I started to refuse—but again caution checked me. I needed this job!

"O. K., Miss Lane," one of the cameramen said. "This way a little more. That's swell!"

Lance strode into the center of the photographers' huddle, taking three long steps from his place in the back of the group. He looked furious and taller than before. His face was set and grim.

"Nothing doing, brother. There'll be no pictures of Miss Lane. Get that? And if any get taken by accident—there'll be an accident to some guy's camera!"

Lance's words—and the stern tone he used—left no room for argument.

"No pictures of Miss Lane!" he ordered. And that was that . . . for the time being.

"I'll let you know when I need you again, Miss Lane," was the sheriff's brief dismissal, and without further discussion they all trooped from the living room, reporters, cameramen, Lance and the sheriff, and into the wing that held Walter Gregg's study and sleeping room.

I had no chance for as much as a single word to tell Lance how grateful I was to him for saving me from the ordeal of posing for the cameramen—and I was grateful, too, for the chance of a little time alone in my quarters. How long ago it seemed since I left the bungalow that morning! I looked at my wrist watch and thought at first it must have stopped—only 4 o'clock. It did not seem possible. But the hall clock, as I passed it, said the same. This day was endless. I was ready for a little rest and quiet in my own room.

I crossed the garden slope quickly and unlocked the door. But the privacy I was looking for seemed as far away as before.

Two women were sitting in my bedroom!

The one sitting upright in the straight chair by the writing table I recognized. Dressed again in her white uniform, as she had been the day she came into Mr. Gregg's study, looking just as gaunt and just as furtive as when I first saw her, I knew her for Florabelle Hunt, the nurse from Hidden Cove.

The other woman—the one sitting in the armchair—I hadn't seen before. But from what Martha Gregg had told me and from the presence of Mrs. Hunt in the room, I knew, instinctively, that it must be Pauline Dawson. She was as Miss Gregg had described her—a face that was the wreckage of former beauty, with great, dark, haunted eyes and white hair blowing carelessly over her high forehead.

The late afternoon sunlight of the autumn slanted brightly across Miss Dawson in the armchair as I stood in the open door. It was a ravaged, unhappy face—but one that must have been very beautiful.

"How did you—?" I spoke involuntarily and didn't finish the sentence. I had turned my key in the lock and taken it with me when I left this morning. It was an ordinary lock and key, but, remembering Miss Baldwin's warning, I was careful always to see that the door was locked when I left the bungalow.

"I hope you don't mind our being here," the woman in the armchair spoke. Mrs. Hunt sat like a statue by the desk. "You're Miss Lane, the secretary, aren't you? I thought so. I'm Miss Dawson, from Hidden Cove, you know. You've met Mrs. Hunt, I think."

Formal introductions, in view of the fact that the intruders had invaded my bedroom, all uninvited, seemed to me a little on the silly side and I didn't speak. I just stood there in the doorway.

Miss Dawson ran on, as undisturbed as if in her own drawing room.

"Just as soon as we heard about the tragedy here we came down the cove—but I cannot say it was a surprise to me. I was prepared for it. Mars is so powerful today. And Mars, as you probably know, is the influence of accident and violence—war and bloodshed."

I was still furious. "I thought I had locked my door," I said. I wanted rest and quiet, not a dissertation on astrology.

"You did, my dear. You did. The door was locked. Carefully locked. We intended to go to the big house and talk to Martha and caution her—" She dropped her voice almost to a whisper and her wide eyes were luminous. "Mars is still powerful. Still a dominant influence!"

"Then how did you get in?" I wasn't even trying to be polite.

"Florabelle's key. Florabelle"—she inclined her head toward the stiff and motionless figure in white—"Florabelle has such a number of keys. She seems always able to unlock everything. You see, my dear, just as we came through the trees the newspaper persons arrived. I knew they must be persons from the newspapers because they carried cameras. So we waited in the trees until they went into the big house. Then Florabelle opened the door. I think it is one of the keys to the cabin in Hidden Cove—but maybe not."

"Did you want something?" I was just about ready to burst into tears, what with the shocks of this dreadful day, the excitement of my note-taking, and my annoyance at finding the two intruders here.

"I wanted to see Martha—that's Miss Gregg, you know. I must warn her that Mars is still powerful—and a most malign influence for us all. I tried to warn her before."

"Was that what Mrs. Hunt wanted when she was here a few days ago?" I was beginning to add two and two together.

"She wanted to warn Walter—poor Walter. He was always very generous to me. It was unfortunate that our signs were so completely incompatible. But Walter was asleep when she called, I think you told her. And she simply couldn't tell her message to Martha. Martha is so unsympathetic to the message of the stars!" Pauline lifted her dark, eloquent eyes to my face. "After I heard what had happened here I felt I must come down myself and warn Martha. But I couldn't face those cameras. So we came in here."

A sudden question struck me. "How did you know what had happened here?" I demanded.

"Mr. Craven. Harry. He drove up and told us."

For the first time a glint of expression crossed the face of Florabelle Hunt. "He thought we should be told," she added to the statement of her mistress—then relaxed again into silent immobility.

That was the strangest thing yet! Why in the name of all that was wonderful should Harry Craven, when he left the ranch house this morning, have dashed up to Hidden Cove and notified these two women of the murder?

That question would need a bit of thinking over, I promised myself.

"If there's anything I can do for you, Miss Dawson"—I knew now what to do—"I'll be glad to do it. If not—and you'll excuse me—"

Without more ado I picked up the lightweight, comfortable wicker chair from beside the window, carried it into the dressing room, locked the door on the inside and made myself comfortable. I couldn't very well order my guests out—but I could escape them. So I did.

I was entitled to a few minutes' comfort. Who knew what would come next on such a day as this? I slipped into a dressing gown, cold creamed my face, brushed my hair and tried to relax. I was so tired—and this was too much, this uninvited and unwanted influx of visitors outside my locked door but inside my bedroom. Well, anyhow, I could be by myself here until time for dinner—or until the next call from Sheriff Allen.

BUCKEYE FARMERS WILL POOL TRUCKS

Organization Will Act To Save Rubber Under ODT Rules

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., June 3—Trucks hauling Ohio agricultural products will be pooled to save tires and equipment under a plan adopted by representatives of Ohio farm organizations.

Established by farm organizations coming under the Office of Defense Transportation 25 per cent mileage reduction order, the Ohio Agricultural Motor Transportation council will set up dispatching stations throughout the state so that trucks will carry a full load one way and at least a 75 per cent load on the return trip.

Although they may haul their own products to market and return with an empty truck under the ODT order, individual farmers will be asked to cooperate in the program so that tire wear may be reduced to a minimum.

C. S. Long, traffic manager for the Ohio Sarm bureau, estimated that 100,000 farm organization trucks would be affected, in addition to those of co-operative individual farmers.

Trucks carrying grain and produce to market or elevators will return with fence wire, paint, machinery, fertilizer and other commodities for farmers along the way, as well as goods for country and small-town stores.

The council hopes, Long said, to trim mileage 35 per cent in addition to hauling a far greater amount of merchandise and farm products.

Farmers entering the council would operate on the "swap load" plan—hauling for a neighbor in return for a similar favor—or would be paid for the merchandise they carried.

The program must be approved by ODT Director Joseph B. Eastman and will be directed by local committees set up in every county.

Organizations participating include the Ohio Farm bureau, the Ohio State grange, the Ohio Wool Growers' association, the Producers Cooperative Commission association, and organizations of dairy farmers, fruit and vegetable growers, grain dealers, live stock firms and producers and farm equipment and supply companies.

THREE MORE ADDED TO LIST OF FOES

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3. — The house of representatives voted today, without a voice being raised in opposition, to add Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania to the list of countries with which the United States is at war.

The war resolutions will be acted on tomorrow by the senate, which was in recess today.

There was no debate or discussion as the resolutions were disposed of rapidly like minor bills.

In sharp contrast to the somber atmosphere that prevailed when three previous declarations were voted—against Japan, Germany and Italy—the house was almost gay as it went about the work of officially labeling the three Axis satellites as Uncle Sam's enemies.

Work-a-Day Wardrobe for the Warm Weather Season

Left, a one-piece cotton print; center, red, white and blue middy dress; right, a star-spangled sailor dress of blue denim.

THIS IS the time to do something practical about your work-a-day wardrobe for summer. You can have a smart collection of flattering clothes for a thrifty sum, if you get out the family sewing machine and make the clothes yourself.

Even if you've yet to tackle the stitching of a straight seam, you'll win great laurels as a smart dressmaker just by getting some instruction at your local sewing center in all the modern short-cuts. If you have trouble fitting clothes get them to mold one of the new thermaplastic dress forms for you.

To be completely convinced about the low cost of self-made wardrobes go to your favorite piece goods counter and see the tempting assortment of materials that still cost as little as 39 cents a yard.

Chambrays, rayon sharkskins, printed sheer cottons and washable spun rayons are just a few of the sturdy fabrics that are well within easy budget range.

The three outfits shown in the above photographs won't be difficult to whip up and are both smart and practical.

A Simple Middy Dress

You'll live in and love the chic simplicity of the ever popular middy dress. Its patriotic color combination this year, of red, white and blue, makes it an irresistible summer fashion.

Crisp white rayon is used for the middy, shown center, with wing blue for the skirt, collar, cuffs and pockets. Bands of vermillion red that accent the collar, cuffs and pockets are stitched on.

Another excellent choice in breezy sailor fashions is a star-spangled and braid trimmed one-piece dress of blue denim, pictured at right. This frock should be a boon to the strictest budget because it costs less than three dollars to make on your machine.

The neck hugging sailor collar drops to a deep square at the back and two rows of narrow braid are stitched around the edge. Braid also trims the short sleeves and wide fabric belt. The front closing from neck to hem is studded with groups of star-shaped buttons.

The model at left will assure you cool comfort through your warm working days. It is a one-piece cotton print dress with the new dropped shirred shoulders, just the suggestion of sleeves and a becoming V neckline. The dress is tied in a belt of solid color that matches one of the shades in the print and the skirt is gracefully full.

The dress has sectional joinings at the midriff with flat seams that flatter the figure.

DECLINE SHOWN IN JUNE RELIEF ROLLS

LISBON, June 3.—June relief rolls show a still further decline, according to an inventory submitted to the county commissioners today by John W. Orr, relief director, revealing 19 less cases and 62 less persons on relief than shown by the May inventory.

Relief figures of the county now show 572 persons composing 228 cases, distributed over the townships as follows: Butler, 2 cases and 14 persons; Center, 29 and 64; Elkrun, 8 and 24; Fairfield, 11 and 18; Franklin 3 and 7; Hanover, 8 and 20; Knox, none; Liverpool, 16 and 39; Madison, 21 and 48; Middleton, 13 and 43; Perry, 8 and 8; Salem, 21 and 46; St. Clair, 18 and 70; Unity, 9 and 34; Washington, 44 and 100; Wayne, 3 and 9; West, 1 and 1; and Yellow Creek township, 13 and 27.

TERRIFIC LIBYAN FIGHT CONTINUES

Both Sides Claim Gains As Sandstorm Screens Off Battle Zone

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, June 3.—The British said today their desert forces had circled 30 miles to the rear of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's African corps and seized one of the main strongholds guarding its vital line of supply, but acknowledged that the shrewd Nazi commander had won control of a nine-mile-wide short cut through the British main front.

A sandstorm which screened the Libyan battle zone in a brown naze apparently masked the consolidating move in which Rommel pulled his forces together in the nine-mile area between gaps previously opened through the British minefield along the Ain El Gazala-Bir Hacheim line.

Reports from the battlefront said thre was no sign of a let-up in the terrific pace of fighting. These accounts said two Axis forces which bored their way to a junction in the gap in the British line some 12 miles north of Bir Hacheim were engaging the British to the north and south.

By his move Rommell opened a direct connection with his supply lanes to the west.

There was no immediate indication whether he hoped to muster sufficient power for a new blow across the wreckage-strewn sand flats toward Tobruk or would continue his previous withdrawal.

However, the new-won British position astride his supply line cut deep into his chances of replacing lost or battered equipment.

The captured strong point was Rotunda Segnali, a long-established Axis supply base, and the penetration indicated that the British had shifted to the offensive, swinging for a knockout against the battered Axis forces as the wildest of all the see-saw battles of Libya stretched into its second week.

Rotunda Segnali is 44 miles west of Knightsbridge, the desert trail crossing which now lies east of the center of fighting.

Nazi Execution in France

How the Nazis take care of loyal Frenchmen in occupied France in reprisals for numerous acts of sabotage is graphically shown in these pictures, smuggled out of France. The victim was one of many hostages executed by Nazi firing squads. At the top the victim has been blindfolded. Below, shot to death, his body sags on the post to which he is tied.

CHINESE BITE OFF CHUNK OF JAP LINE

Recapture Yangki; Rains Bogging Down Invasion Of East Coast

(By Associated Press)

Chinese dispatches reported today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies had cut a triangular chunk from the flank of the Japanese lines in Chekiang province with the recapture of Yangki, 45 miles northwest of Kinhwa, and said heavy rains were bogging the Japanese invasion of China's east coast.

Serious difficulties still confronted the Chinese in lower Chekiang, however, as Japanese columns battled the defenders only 12 miles northeast of the important city of Chuhsien, 45 miles southwest of Kinhwa, the Japanese-occupied provincial capital.

Send Lease-Lend Aid

While Chiang's armies struggled to stem the offensive, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told parliament in London that Britain and the United States were sending China all lease-lend war materials "which it is possible to supply" amid "other urgent requirements and the difficulties of transport."

The United States yesterday signed an agreement bringing China into the lease-lend bloc of Allies on virtually the same basis as Britain.

Other developments:

MADAGASCAR—France's Vichy government announced that British troops had started moving south on the 1,000-mile French island of Madagascar, off the coast of southeast Africa, and had occupied the town of Androvorano.

Androvorano lies 25 miles south of the big Diego Suarez naval base, captured by British sea-borne troops in a surprise attack a month ago.

No fighting was mentioned in the announcement, but air activity was said to have increased on both sides.

AUSTRALIA—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied bombers had inflicted heavy new blows on Japanese barracks and other targets on enemy-held "invasion" bases north of Australia.

A communique said United Nations airmen set huge fires at Tulagi, deep in the Solomon islands off Australia's northeast coast, and also attacked Rabaul, in New Britain, and Atamboea, Timor island.

BURMA—American "Flying Tiger" volunteers were officially credited with destroying 28 to 32 Japanese planes and making 12 major attacks with a loss of only six planes during May.

Dispatches said the AVG's bombing and strafing of Japanese troops attempting to cross the Salween river had given the Chinese time to establish proper defense lines to block Japanese spearheads jabbing into China's far southwest Yunnan province from Burma.

Would Recruit Farm Help from Schools

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Recommendations for recruiting thousands of high school youths to help relieve farm labor shortages, including a suggestion that this work experience might be credited toward diploma requirements, were sent by U. S. Education Commissioner John W. Studebaker today to 40,000 state and city school officials.

Studebaker told the school officials that if a farm army of boys and girls was to be mobilized in sufficient numbers to meet the demand "youth must be convinced that their services are urgently needed in this phase of the war effort."

"They should be informed about farm living conditions, the kind and amount of work that will be expected of them, the compensation they will receive in return, plus meals, laundry, lodging and the like," he said.

Student farmer programs are being worked out loyally in some areas and Studebaker's communication was designed to guide local efforts.

Placement of pupils on farms by the U. S. employment service should be approved by school authorities he said, "since schools have both a legal and moral obligation for the youth enrolled in them.

Farmers seeking in-school youth as helpers were asked to file applications with the U. S. Employment Service in or near their communities.

"Sufficient information should be filed to give both youth and their parents a rather definite picture of the farmer and his farm—the environment in which the youth will work and live," the education office said.

Studebaker emphasized that arrangements must be made by which young people may make up scholastic work which they miss while doing emergency farm work

Any Nazi General, Or Even Field Marshal, Must Park Guns If He Wants To See Hitler

(Free and in America after five months' interment in Germany, Louis P. Lochner, famous United States newsman, now is writing for Wide World stories on Germany's leaders and conditions within the country. Here he gives you the facts about Hitler's relationship with his generals.)

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

NEW YORK, June 3 — (Wide World)—It's revolvers down and belts off for any general or field marshal who wants to see Adolf Hitler at his GHQ in East Prussia, or in the Berlin chancellory, or anywhere else.

No matter how well an army, navy, or airforce leader may know der fuehrer, no matter how completely in his confidence he may believe himself to be, the German dictator takes no chances.

Hence, before anybody can come into his presence, he must park his pistol, his military belt, or his saber in the anteroom.

The erstwhile corporal of the first World war loves the game of war more than he loves anything else. He wants to out-Napoleon Napoleon.

Better Than Napoleon

When in his reichstag speech of April 26 he praised the German troops for having accomplished-during the past winter what the forces of the great Corsican could not achieve, he in fact impliedly told the world that he had already outstripped Napoleon.

Filled as he is with military ambition, he can tolerate no other gods besides himself. The late Colonel-General Von Fritsch, the father of the present German army, had to resign because he dared criticize Hitler's acquiescence in Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg's marital mes-alliance in 1938.

General Beck, chief of the German general staff, became "ill" just before the outbreak of the present war. He opposed Hitler's policy of frightfulness.

To estimate the relation between Hitler and generals correctly, one must remember the tradition in which the men in the fifties and sixties who now hold the responsible army positions grew up. They are left-overs from the imperial regime. The German emperor and his family were soldiers from early childhood on. During the present war, grandsons of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II were killed in action.

They rose successively to high military ranks. They were accepted not only as equals but, by virtue of the strong monarchical tradition ingrained in every German officer, as superiors.

Still A Corporal

Adolf Hitler to them will ever remain the World war corporal. True to their oath as soldiers they obey der fuehrer as the commander-in-chief of all the nation's military forces. But they often wince at his decisions and, when strictly among themselves, criticize both his strategic plans and their moral implications.

Take the keynote speech which Adolf Hitler delivered to the assembled military top leaders in his Berchtasgaden mountain retreat a few days before the invasion of Poland began. It caused no end of shaking of heads and whispers of dismay.

One officer sitting in the rear of the large room where the officers' corps was assembled scribbled the text of this brief but blood-curdling address in shorthand on the cuff of his shirt. Some day I expect to be able to publish that text.

In it, Hitler put himself on record as favoring the total war front in which women and children can be as little exempted as can civilian populations generally if caught between sections of the retreating army. He stated bluntly that he didn't mind being called Ghengis Khan or Attila the Hun; history recorded these names as those of great doers. He urged the generals to be tough.

The Polish campaign proceeded with a fierceness and brutality unequaled hitherto, but Hitler was not satisfied. He wanted the soldiers and their officers not only to fight battles but also to make short shrift of the Polish population.

Sends SS Men

The army balked at this. So Hitler sent his uncompromising SS men to Poland to "clean up." They did—and countless are the stories told me by German officers themselves of acts of inhumanity committed by the Black Guards.

General Von Blaskowitz, on behalf of the army, protested against these methods. He has been in disgrace ever since.

The brutality of the SS in Poland is not the only objection which the regular army has against this special formation of Hitler bodyguards. The regular forces resent the preferred publicity given the exploits of the SS in the daily communiques; and they resent the "break" given the SS always to be in the final skirmish of a decisive strategic movement.

Another point of friction between Hitler and the old-line generals has been the Nazi fight on the church. The old Prussian officer was used to going to church on Sundays and seeing army chaplains about him on the battle field.

On Dec. 23, 1940 I attended a Christmas celebration in the Berlin garrison. The colonel in charge had the soldiers sing all the traditional Christian Christmas songs like "Stille Nacht" and "Adeste Fideles."

Liked The Old Way

To my somewhat surprised comment that this was rather unusual, he said:

"I'm not going to let anybody interfere with our celebrating Christmas in the good old Christian way. Others may decide to revive old pagan German customs for Yuletide; so long as I head this garrison it's a Christian Christmas for us—and I think the soldiers prefer it."

I for one certainly saw and heard them singing with deep emotion and reverence.

One hears again and again that the generals' corps is fed up and ready to throw the entire Nazi outfit out.

Such rumors, I believe, are too much the result of wishful thinking. For, however much a general may disagree with der fuehrer, he remembers his oath of allegiance. And he also remembers that in imperial Germany and later in the short-lived republic, too, it was part of the creed of an officer that he must never become mixed up in politics. To remove the Nazis would be a political act of the first magnitude.

Therefore, a generals' revolution, for the present at least, represents a myth and should be discounted as such.

Sets New Iron Record

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—B. F. Harris, president of the National Tube Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Steel corporation, announced today a new world's record for iron production had been set by one of the company's blast furnaces located in the northern Ohio industrial area.

Harris said the unit, erected in place of a smaller stack during 1940 and put into production in 1941, produced 43,866 net tons of iron in May. That exceeded the previous established world's record of 43,478 net tons set by the same furnace in March, Harris said.

U. S. TANKS GREAT DESERT FIGHTERS

CAIRO, Egypt, June 3.—The "General Grant," an American-made tank with plenty of ability to give punishment and take it, is one of the main reasons for the Axis setback in Libya, observers reported today from the battlefield.

It was officially disclosed that the "General Grant" is armed with a 77-milimeter gun firing high explosive and anti-personnel shells, plus a 37-milimeter anti-tank weapon and a machine gun.

The tank is the United States army's M-3 medium type—a big, lumbering 28-tonner with heavy armor plate.

Slower than the "Honey," which is the name for the American light M-3, the "General Grant" has what is most desired in the desert—a big gun able to knock out enemy tanks.

NO OPPOSITION FOR DOW W. HARTER SEEN

AKRON, June 3. — Democratic leaders in Ohio's 14th congressional district expressed a belief today that Rep. Dow W. Harter would encounter no opposition in the primary.

Harter filed nominating petitions for re-election late yesterday.

Congressman Michael J. Kirwan of Youngstown also filed for re-election. He was the first of either major party to enter the congressional race in the 19th district.

Dr. Clinton J. Altmaier of Marion, vice chairman of the Democratic state central committee, announced his candidacy for congress in the eighth district. Frederick C. Smith, Marion Republican, is the incumbent.

At Cincinnati, the Democratic nominating committee has endorsed William H. Hessler, foreign editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer since 1930, as a congressional candidate in the first district, now represented by Charles H. Elston, Republican.

Electric Furnace Upsets Carroll Club; Cigars Blank Jacksons

E. F. WINS FIRST BY 5-3; RITCHIE SHOWS BEST FORM

Horning, Gray Shine In Furnace Win; Cigar Hitting Better

The Electric Furnace and the United Cigars showed their best form of the season last night at Centennial park, the Furnaces snapping a four game losing streak to defeat the Carroll club, 5-3, and the Cigars blanking the Jacksons team 8-0.

Dale Ritchie had all his stuff as he set the Jackson hitters down with four scattered blows, two by Dick Boughton. His teammates gave him two runs in the first and those probably would have been enough but they bunched their 13 hits well enough to count eight runs. Wayne Hahn of Jacksons experiences trouble in putting the ball where he wanted it and as a result was in trouble in almost every inning.

Ritchie was given perfect support by his teammates, as was Hahn, and had the situation well in hand at all times. The win was the Cigars' second straight and served to warn that they are rounding into form. The loss was Jackson's fourth.

In the nightcap, the Electric Furnace won its first game of the season and in doing so downed the Carroll club, 5-3. The Carroll club scored first, getting its three runs in the second when Sal Guappone tripled with two mates aboard and stole home.

The Furnaces came back in the following inning with four runs and added another in the fifth to give Lenny Robbins a lead to work on. Robbins allowed the usually hard-hitting Carrolls but five hits and added another in the fifth to give Lenny Robbins a lead to work on. Robbins allowed the usually hard-hitting Carrolls but five hits and doled out no more than one to a batter. The Furnaces collected eight safeties off the combined pitching of Guappone and Johnny Volio.

Art Horning and Howard Gray each made two hits to lead the Furnace team to its initial triumph. Gray had a double and a single while Horning blasted two singles.

Each team was charged with three errors.

ASSOCIATION SEEN AS MAJOR LEAGUE HUNTING GROUNDS

Old Timers, Past Draft Age, May Get Major League Offers

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—The American Association, only baseball loop which is "AA" in both name and classification, may prove a happy hunting grounds for the majors if the draft annexes too much of the big-time talent.

Red-haired prexy George M. Trautman's circuit has a host of former major leaguers in the higher age brackets, from which the big leagues, instead of the army, might select selectees to plug gaps for a while.

In fact, a pretty fair major league ball club might be culled from former big-time players, 33 years or over, now cavorting Association lots.

Leads Homer Hitters

Harvey (Hub) Walker of Minneapolis, 35-year-old outfielder who roamed the pastures for Detroit from 1931 to 1935, and for Cincinnati the next two years, is leading the Association with 10 home runs and 62 total bases, while Alvin (Jake) Powell, 33-year-old outfielder with Indianapolis, is knotted for the doubles lead with 10. Powell was with Washington from 1930 to 1935, and spent the next five seasons with the Yankees.

Here's what the various Association clubs have to offer in the line of higher age bracket talent which has seen service under the big top:

Columbus, Floyd L. (Pep) Young, 34, infielder, last with the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago.

Indianapolis: Charles L. (Gabby) Hartnett, 41, manager-catcher, New York Giants, 1941; Walter E. Tauscher, 37, pitcher, Cleveland, 1934-35; Elon C. Hogsett, 38, pitcher, Philadelphia Athletics, 1939-1940; John P. Pasek, 36, catcher, Philadelphia and Chicago Americans, 1934; Milton Galatzer, 33, outfielder, Cincinnati, 1939-1940; Joe Moore, 34, outfielder, New York Giants, 1932-1941; Alvin Powell, 33, outfielder, New York Yankees, 1936-1940.

Kansas City: Fred M. Frankhouse, 36, pitcher-coach, Boston Nationals, 1939; Jack Saltzgaver, 36, infielder, New York Yankees, 1931-1937.

Louisville: Ralph (Red) Kress, 35, infielder-coach, Detroit, 1939-1940.

Milwaukee: George F. Blaeholder, 38, pitcher, Cleveland, 1936; Roxie Lawson, 33, pitcher, St. Louis Browns, 1939-1940; Vance Page, 35, pitcher, Chicago Cubs, 1938-1941; Odell Hale, 34, infielder, New York Giants, 1941.

Minneapolis: Harry Kelley, 36, pitcher, Washington, 1938-39; Harvey Walker, 35, outfielder, Cincinnati, 1936-1937; Albert O. (Ab) Wright, 33, outfielder, Cleveland, 1934-1935.

St. Paul: Arthur L. Herring, 35, pitcher, Chicago White Sox, 1938-1939; William Swift, 34, pitcher, Brooklyn, 1940-1941; Gilbert English, 33, Boston Nationals, 1938.

Toledo: Harry Kimberlin, 33, pitcher, St. Louis Americans, 1935-1940; Fred Ostermueller, 34, pitcher, St. Louis Browns, 1941; Leroy (Bud) Parmalee, 35, pitcher, Philadelphia Athletics, 1939; Roy C. (Beau) Bell, 34, outfielder, Cleveland, 1940-1941.

PRINCETON, N. J.—Maybe there is still hope for the St. Louis Browns, only major league club never to have won a pennant.

Princeton, always below the .500 mark in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball league until last season, now has clinched its second consecutive conference crown.

SI JOHNSON BESTS RIDDLE, PHILS WIN

CINCINNATI, June 3.—Cincinnati must trim Philadelphia tonight for an even break in a two-game series with the last placers—all because ol' Si Johnson whitewashed the Redlegs yesterday.

Johnson allowed his former Redleg teammates only five hits in 10 innings in beating Elmer Riddle, 1-0. Max Marshall was the only Redleg to reach second, making it on a single and sacrifice in the ninth, but then Joe Abreu hit into a double play.

Rookie Abreu, substituting at third for Bert Haas who took injured Frank McCormick's place at first, was the "goat" in a heartbreaking loss for Riddle. Abreu fumbled Albin Glossop's sacrifice after Danny Litwhiler opened the tenth by beating out a hit to deep short. Litwhiler advanced on Rookie Ron Northey's single off Lonnie Frey's glove, held third while Bobby Bragan popped, then scored on Tommy Livingston's fly.

Riddle, like Johnson, turned in a five-hit job for his best performance of the year.

Paul Derringer for the Reds and Rube Melton for the Phils are tonight's probable pitchers.

BROOKLYN ROOKIE HANDS BUCS 10TH STRAIGHT DEFEAT

Dodgers Enjoy Big Day As Webber Pitches Five-Hitter

By JUDSON BAILEY.

If there are ever times that Frank (Onkel Franz) Frisch yearns to return to radio announcing today must be one of them.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who started the season in splendor, have become more futile and pathetic than even the Philadelphia Phils, who haven't been out of the National league cellar since the first day of the campaign.

Pittsburgh has lost 10 straight games and 16 of its last 18 and was humiliated yesterday by the worst thrashing of the season in the senior circuit—17 to 2 by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rookie Les Webber made it more humiliating than ever, giving Pittsburgh only five hits. Peter Reiser got five hits in five trips for the Dodgers.

There were two other five-hit pitching performances in the National league yesterday—thrown against each other by old Si Johnson and young Elmer Riddle in a 10-inning duel which the Phils took from the Cincinnati Reds 1-0.

Hal Schumacher, who hadn't won a game since April 23, kept nine hits scattered at Chicago and the New York Giants beat the Cubs, 5 to 1.

John Beazley, young relief hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals, did a spectacular job to save a 4 to 3 decision over the Boston Braves for Mort Cooper. Cooper weakened in the ninth and permitted Sibby Sisti to triple a pair of runs home with only one out. Beazley trudged in from the bull pen to retire the side.

Mel Harder stepped into the breach for the Cleveland Indians at Boston by holding the Red Sockers to six hits and winning 7-2. The Tribe has been in a sticky slump, losing nine of their last 11 games.

Two great pitching performances were turned in under the lights with Early Wynn, the Washington youngster, stopping the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, and Virgil (Fire) Trucks of the Tigers applying the first coat of whitewash to the Athletics this season, 3 to 0.

CUB FANS PLEASED WITH STYLE SHOWN BY CUB SHORTSTOP

Lennie Merullo Candidate For "Cinderella Man" Honors In 1942

CHICAGO—Barring unforseen incidents such as injuries, illness and a sharp reversal of fielding and batting form, Lennie Merullo, the Chicago Cubs' sensational young shortstop bids fair to inherit the title of Baseball's "Cinderella Man" of 1942.

As the Chicago Cubs started their first eastern swing of the year the player who came up to the Cubs in 1939 by way of the Villanova campus and who was forced out of play that same year by a sore arm topped the team batting list with a smart .310. That is the only average that comes within close proximity of the coveted .300 mark.

A fellow with less intestinal fortitude than that possessed by Merullo might have forced nine out of ten athletes out of baseball forever. After that sore arm episode in 1939, Merullo's feeble batting and lackadaisical fielding in 1940 and 1941. However, toward the end of last year Merullo displayed the fielding sparkle that stamped him as big league timber while he was still at Villa Nova. There was a time when Merullo crashed into the "good field, no hit" realm.

With Los Angeles last year, Merullo hit a meager .218, and previous to that his best mark in the International League was .239.

Early in the spring training camp of the Cubs at Santa Catalina Islands, Merullo assumed a "do or die" attitude. He spent several hours watching Bobby Sturgeon, the Cubs' No. 1 shortstop of last season perform. The little Italian spent some extra time at batting drill and finally believed he was ready.

Approaching Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Cubs, Merullo said: "Bos, this is going to be my big year. If Sturgeon is the only "guy" I have to beat out for that shortstopping job, I am the Cub shortstop."

Hunch Proves True

Later events proved that Merullo had more than a hunch when he conversed with Wilson. However, it took a break to give Merullo his big chance. During the first series of the season while playing against the Cardinals in St. Louis, Sturgeon suffered a badly spiked foot.

Wilson called Merullo out of the dugout and stationed him at shortstop. He has been there ever since and from all indications it will take an adverse break to get him out of there.

Just before the Cubs headed east Meruullo had collected 27 assorted hits in 88 times at bat for the fancy 310 mark.

Chicago fans were greatly impressed with the Cubs' keystone combination of Lou Stringer at second base and Sturgeon at short last season, but they are just as greatly impressed with the new combination of Merullo and Stringer.

Playing side by side, Merullo and Stringer, the latter also a product of the Pacific Coast League, have engineered some sparkling fielding play this season. And oddly enough, this combination is also leading the Cubs in batting. Merullo with .310 and Stringer with .274. While the latter figure doesn't look too impressive, Stringer has made his hits count and has driven in 14 runs.

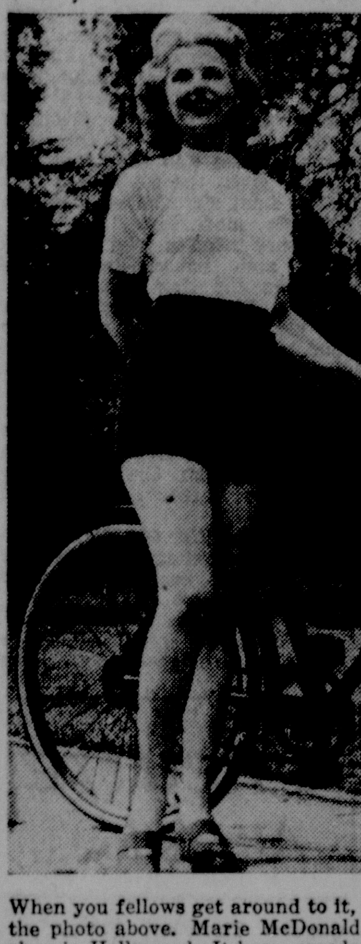
SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Joe Batiste, the stout Sacramento Junior college star who scored 49 points in the national junior college track and field meet over the weekend, will turn from running to riding next month.

He plans to enlist in the cavalry.

Back to the Good Old Days



When you fellows get around to it, we'd like you to note that bicycle in the photo above. Marie McDonald, movie starlet, found it in a cycle shop in Hollywood. It has a wooden frame and is about a century old. You may soon see many similar bikes now that Uncle Sam is clamping down on the use of metal for civilians.

RETIRED BAT-BOY BRINGS NEW ZEST TO RED SOX CLUB

Johnny Pesky Replaces Manager Cronin At Shortstop Post

BOSTON—A retired bat-boy from Portland, Ore., who convinced Manager Joe Cronin the time had come to bench himself, is furnishing the "get-up" today for the Boston Red Sox infield.

When John Michael Paveskovich—all right, call him Johnny Pesky—turned up at the training camp this spring he sported a young career that included a professional baseball job while he was still in high school and only one year in the minors after graduation.

Before him there is—a career in the army as soon as his number comes to the top late this summer or early autumn. But he intends to play a lot of baseball in the meantime.

"Five years ago I was all set for a life-time of loafing," Pesky says, "until my high school coach, Wade Williams, took me in hand and gave me the will to play."

Johnny doesn't say how well Williams, of Lincoln High School in Portland, succeeded. But Cronin, who liked the idea of being a player-manager, didn't try to compete with his "find."

Pesky had been bat-boy with the Portland club from 1932 to 1937, taking infield workouts with the club and practicing batting with sandlot pitchers on off-days. During his senior year at Lincoln High he received $250 a month for playing pro ball and the next year moved into the short-stopping slot with Rocky Mount of North Carolina.

He's still learning, but he likes to tell about Williams.

"He taught me more about baseball and life than anyone else I have ever known. I'm still not the best shortstop in the business, but I'm still willing to learn."

Just now he trying to get the ball away a bit more quickly on the double play.

The added pep that Pesky has brought to the Sox has revitalized the entire infield. Bobby Doerr has picked up a new zest and now is skipping about the keystone sack more spryly than ever. Doerr had slowed down to keep pace with the slowing Cronin.

Will Pesky continue to learn?

Here's what he did to gather the fine points of sliding:

"When I was a kid the groundskeepers at Portland used to soak down the outfield with fire hoses to keep it soft. The water would settle into the ground, but there were always a few pools left and 10 or 15 of us would strip down to our shorts and dive into the pools to practice sliding. We'd slide all day in the mud and afterward we'd have only a red welt."

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The U. S. Golf association, which drew a lot of criticism for its hasty cancellation of the open and amateur championships, seems to be making a great come-back with the Hale America Open tournament. . . . The sectional qualifying rounds this weekend will take in virtually all the top-ranking pros and amateurs available and the ones who don't have to qualify will play exhibitions anyway. . . . About the only important names we can think of that will be missing are Sam Snead, Porky Oliver, Bud Ward, Willie Turnesa, Charlie Yates and Johnny Fisher, who will be too busy with their army and navy duties. . . . Corp. Jim Turnesa, the army's No. 1 golfer right now, tells why his putting was so hot during the P. G. A. tournament—because he didn't have much chance to practice anything else.

Last Straw

When Jack Dunn, 3rd, who is a pretty good college ball player besides being traveling secretary of the Baltimore Orioles, was playing for Princeton against the soldier team at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., the other day, he fouled one into the stands. . . . The spectator who got the ball hesitated about throwing it back, and a soldier shouted from the field: "Please return all balls, and we will give them to the Phillies." . . . The fan tossed it back.

HARDER WINS 7-2; INDIANS IN THIRD

BOSTON, June 3.—Back in third place again, the Cleveland Indians polished their bats today for another hitting spree in Beantown.

Their collection of 14 safeties in a 7 to 2 triumph over the Red Sox here yesterday demolished thoughts that the Tribe never would beat the Boston jinx.

In their first victory over the Bosox in five weeks this season, Cleveland clubbed Boston into fourth place and moved the wigwam within a half game of Detroit, and eight games behind the league-leading Yankees. After completing a three-game series here tomorrow, the Indians move to New York for five contests against the world champions.

Every Indian got at least one hit yesterday to give Mel Harder his fourth victory against three defeats.

The 32-year-old Harder fanned five, walked one, and during the first eight frames permitted three hits while facing 25 batters, just one man over the absolute minimum.

Jeff Health and Les Fleming hit for the circuit for the Tribe.

EX-BIG LEAGUERS MAY BE RECALLED FROM COAST LOOP

Charley Root Makes Bid For Another Tryout In Majors

SAN FRANCISCO — The old men of baseball, those Methuselahs who are bent under the weight of 35 years or so, are thinking of throwing away their crutches and catching a train for the East.

As the draft catches up with the younger players in the major leagues there will be large, vacant spaces in the lineups. Unless managers want to entrust their pennant hopes to high school kids, it looks as if they'll have to call on some of the old tried-and-trues who now are tapering off their careers in the minors. That's what the major leagues did in 1918 in the first World War.

The Pacific Coast league would be a prolific source of such material. It has even turned a few good tricks of the kind in peacetime.

One of the most promising candidates in the war emergency is Pitcher Hal Turpin of Seattle, who never even has had a trial in the majors.

Pitched No-Hitter

In his middle thirties, Turpin for the last few seasons has been the steadiest pitcher in the Coast league, and this year pitched a no-hit, no-runner.

Jo-Jo White, outfielder who was with Detroit in pennant winning years, is still capable of holding down an emergency berth, though not a robust hitter.

A veteran American league catcher, Joe Glenn, has made a grand comeback with Oakland after a poor 1941 season in the American Association. Oakland also has Jack Salveson, a bespectacled right-handed pitcher, who has had tryouts with the Giants and White Sox.

Also, Charley Root

Charley Root, the old Chicago Cub "fireman," is sure he'll get another chance in the majors. He has been a consistent winning pitcher for Hollywood. The Stars also have Ham Schulte, a smooth, steady second baseman, once with the Phillies and Yanks.

If being a big winner with a losing club means anything, Ad Liska, submarine right-handed pitcher with the Portland club, ought to attract an offer. He has had trials with Washington and Pittsburgh.

Another who saw lengthy service in the majors and now handling an assignment competently in Coast league competition is Roy Hughes, second baseman for the Angells, who played with Cleveland a few years ago.

SALEM BOOK STORE, MULLINS CHALK UP WINS IN CLASS B

Horning Pitches Two-Hit Ball As Mates Pound Out 21 Safeties

Mullins and Salem Book Store turned in impressive performances in their Class B debuts last night at the Centennial park "B" diamond, the former topping Roberts in an extra-inning affair, 6-5, and the latter blasting out 20 runs to whip the South Side, 20-1.

The Mullins team went to work on Pitcher Bill Ritchie of the Roberts team in the first inning and tallied four runs. Having a safe DeCrow sailed along on his lead lead to work on, Mullins' George until the last of the seventh when Roberts knotted the count with a two run rally. The shopmen finally pulled out a decision in the second extra-inning.

DeCrow led the Mullins attack, getting two hits in three trips up while Lee Hahn and Bob Pasco each collected two to lead Roberts. The game was a loosely played one with eight errors being charged.

In the second game, the Salem Book Store ran wild to back up Paul Horning's two-hit pitching job. After a slow start in the first frame, the Tigers got up steam and counted four runs in the second, seven runs in the third and six more in the fourth.

Ray Wise led the 21-hit attack on "Kooty" Kozar with two doubles and two singles while Harry Lodge and "Gabby" Ritchie each smashed out three hits. Kozar and Kautz got the only two hits off Horning, both scratch singles. Errors robbed the chubby pitcher of a shutout. Wagner cracked out a home for the winners in the hectic third frame.

Guinea Pigs Are Needed; Breeders In Other Jobs

COLUMBUS, June 3. — Want to sell a guinea pig to science? If so, you must have disregarded "Wanted: guinea pig" ads.

Many breeders of the furry little rodents are in the army or better paying factory jobs and haven't the time to bother with hordes of guinea pigs, Ohio State university scientists reported today.

The few suitable pigs on the market are bringing as much a a dollar instead of the former top of 35 cents in normal times, they said.

Laboratories and medical schools want more of the animals for making virulence tests or demonstrating surgical technique, the Ohio State men said.

State Health Director R. H. Markwith said his laboratory technicians were considering using white rats and mice instead of guinea pigs in virulence tests, in which blood from an ill person is injected into the animal to determine reaction.

DOUHET AIR RAID THEORY RECALLED

Late Italian General Held Planes Could Conquer Nations

Churchill has promised that.

To what ends will such striking-power carry the Allies? We should regard with reserve predictions that the Anglo-American air forces can reduce the Germans to impotency without the necessity of opening a second land front in western Europe.

Will German morale stand this new terror? Time alone will tell.

We do know the Nazi chief is being dealt a fierce and perhaps irreparable blow. We lack details about Krupps, but the loss of any considerable portion of this mainstay of German arms would be a major disaster for the Nazis.

If the Allies are able to continue this great aerial offensive, the German armies soon will feel the pinch of lack of supplies. That will be a heavy setback at a moment when Hitler wants every ounce of strength to try for a decision this summer—likely his last chance.

NEW JOB ASSIGNED TO STENOGRAPHER

LISBON, June 3.—A practice of many years standing of employing two common pleas court stenographers here has been abolished by Judge Joel H. Sharp in compliance with the revised General Code of Ohio authorizing the appointment of one stenographer for each judge.

Should an emergency arise, or in case there are two sessions of common pleas court, Mrs. Byers will still be available as a shorthand court reporter. Funds set up in the annual budget as compensation for the extra reporter were also ordered transferred by the court to the clerk of courts department.

SALES TAX INCOME HIT BY PRIORITIES

COLUMBUS, June 3.—Priorities sent revenues from Ohio's three-per cent sales tax reeling downward during the week ended May 23 as income dropped $268,668 from the same period last year and two classifications—furniture and building—showed initial declines.

Only three of eight groups reported increases, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright announced today. They were food, which moved up from $99,672 during the week last year to $113,250 this year, and general and miscellaneous sales which showed a combined increase of approximately $23,000.

Furniture, previously ahead of last year, dropped $9,351 to $76,949, and building, after holding a substantial lead earlier fell off $8,093 to $79,775.

The automotive classification still led in declines, dropping from $356,332 to $339,892; chain stores fell from $348,436 to $314,835 and apparel from $76,821 to $74,823.

Total revenues from January 1 to May 23 were $21,449,491, a decrease of $1,722,065 from the 1941 period.

ADMITS GESTAPO HIRED HIM AS SPY

Minneapolis Man Says He Got $200 Monthly for U. S. Activities

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—Minneapolis-born Dr. Hans Helmut Gros admitted in a purported confession read at his federal court trial that he was employed at $200 a month, plus a 20,000-mark bonus, as a German intelligence agent with the rank of captain.

But he declared he never worked very hard at the job.

Dr. Gros said in the confession that the recently wounded Reinhard Heydrich, No. 2 man of the German Gestapo and his former schoolmate in Saxonia, had instructed him to:

"Organize sabotage, the blowing up of ships, industrial plants and such things.

"Take photographs of harbors and military objectives.

"Furnish information on persons who might be contacted to create strikes."

Sent Clippings
